I originally came to trinity sixth form for the music and recording studio facilities. The performing arts department was brilliant and we were lucky to have really great teachers and teaching assistant led by Angela Turton who was an inspirational leader for the department.

The main thing I took from that time was the amount work and dedication you need in order to succeed in the entertainment business and I have carried that with me since. I also learnt a lot about myself and how to work with other people and different personalities.

I made some great friends in my time there who I still keep in touch with (one of whom I'm now married to!) and have great memories of that time in my life.
